MARTYRED CITY OF THE SERBIANS

(Correspondence Associated Press.)

MONASTIR, Serbia, Oct. 7.—This martyred city of the Serbs, under continuous bombardment from the Bulgarians, only two miles away, was visited for the first time today by a civilian, on orders issued by General Crosetti, commander-in-chief of the Monastir front of the Army of the Orient. It is seldom that a press dispatch goes from Serbia these days, for practically the whole country has been swept clean by the Austro-Bulgarian hordes, and only this little corner in the southwest, retaken last November, is holding out against the terrific bombardment.

"It is worse than Verdun," said Lieutenant Colonel Dosse of the staff, who was on General Petain's staff at Verdun during the worst days.

Monastir lies in a cup-like hollow, and by reason of its being on Serbian soil it is the center of the bitterest strife between Serb and Bulgarian. It was one of the last points abandoned by the Serbs in their exodus before the rush of the Austrians in 1915. The Bulgarians held it last year through August. Then the new Serbian army, reorganized, gave their first attention to getting back this city. But their newness was against them and they were badly repulsed. But in October the Serbs got their revenge, making a mass attack with the French and Russian divisions.

This fight of Serb against Bulgarian was one of the bloodiest of the war. The Serb took the strategic key of Mount Kalsnatchkalon, which today marks the burying place of 10,000 Bulgarians. Monastir was again taken, but the Austro-Bulgarians still held on only three miles north and west of the city. General Crosetti cleared them from the northern hills in a brilliant attack last March, when the famous hill 1,248 was taken. But they clung to the western hills and there they are today raining down their shells on the old Serbian town. It used to have 50,000 population; now it has 5,000 living in cellars.

Entering the city by the street through the poor quarter, there were signs of life, despite the rumble of the guns. Little girls ran along the street with jars of water on their heads, carrying fresh water to the people imprisoned in the cellars. All the shops were closed or abandoned. Many of the front walls were ripped out, and the abandoned stock scattered about. Almost every third house was down—a mass of debris. Those between were askew, with a cornice or wing blown off, or the upper story torn out, or a huge round hole in through before exploding. A tumbledown cafe showed several men at the tables. "They take chances," said Col. Dosse, "but when an explosion comes they scuttle to the cellars."

The business section had lost all semblance to streets with houses. It was one long stretch of blackened heaps of debris, with a jagged wall or chimney sticking up here and there.

Besides the destruction, the killed, scattered through the past summer, runs into the hundreds. Shell fire and falling walls have not been alone in running up the death list, for the Bulgarians send a wave of asphyxiating gas every time the wind is favorable.

The run from army headquarters to Monastir gave the opportunity of seeing the vast military preparations on this front. Four American ambulance cars also were passed bringing sick and wounded from the Monastir front.

The camp of equipment and engineering supplies stretches for four miles along the route, with vast stores of munitions and stores, trench and railway material. Soldiers, prisoners, horses, mules and camels were sending up great clouds of dust, and the nearby cornfields had turned gray with the dust of this legion of workers who keep pushing the supplies up to the fighting front. The approach of winter is evident, for winter barracks are being constructed of wood and corrugated iron, and great stacks of fuel are being laid in.

Everything on the Monastir front indicates that the entente forces are here to stay. There is no evidence of withdrawal, and every evidence of holding what they already have and pushing farther forward. Monastir itself has been freed of Bulgarian, but the city is still under the fire of their guns and the task still remains of clearing them from this outpost of the Serbs—the last they left and the first they recovered.

Payday Cheers Tonopah Folk

♦ Tonopah was today again ♦ made happy, the monthly ♦ distribution of wages taking place. ♦ Last month established a new ♦ high record for the camp, due ♦ to the increased number of men ♦ employed and the advance of 50 ♦ cents a day in wages, but today ♦ probably surpassed the 10th of ♦ October, due to last month ♦ having 31 days and the addition ♦ of the MacNamara mill payroll. ♦ Owing to the banks closing at ♦ noon, no definite figures could ♦ be obtained.

STATE COMPLETES CASE.

Dis. Atty. Atkinson was today expected to close the state's case in the trial of Joe May, charged jointly with his partner, John Esser, both cattle men of Beatty, with rustling a number of head of cattle belonging to L. P. Kimball and E. S. Van Dyke. Clay Dobson, Ivy Coutney and H. D. Porter, all of the Beatty vicinity, testified at today's sessions. It is expected that the defense will complete its case and that arguments will be presented in about three days.

CARD TO THE PUBLIC.

Beginning Monday, Nov. 12, my office will be on North Main street, one door north of Fitzgerald's barber shop, where I will be pleased to meet anyone having matters to transact in my line of business—real estate, insurance and collections. Prompt attention to all.

COAL DISTRIBUTION DISSATISFACTION TODAY

Considerable dissatisfaction that almost resulted in the calling of a mass meeting of indignant citizens was aroused by the giving of orders of the state fuel commissioners of Tonopah that the Wilkes Warehouse sell no coal unless on orders from them. The giving of this order was verified by expressmen who have always taken care of the orders of the laboring men who are unable to buy coal in lots of several tons.

The Wittenberg Transfer company and the National Fuel company stated that they had orders in from their customers and were supplying them at the rate of 500 and 1,000 pounds out of the car each had received this morning. Considerable dissatisfaction is being expressed over the action of the committee appointed several weeks ago and who did not become active until the citizens' fuel committee had been named by Ben Luce, who was requested to act as its chairman. This committee got busy at once and found the ways and the wherefores, while the committee appointed by State Fuel Administrator E. H. Walker was not known to the citizens of Tonopah until the citizens' fuel committee had become active, although Mr. Brown and Mr. Moore say they received their commissions eight days before, having never made the matter public. The only thing that The Bonanza wishes for the people of Tonopah is that we had a dozen fuel committees and they would all work with the citizens' general committee to relieve the suffering of the poorer classes. Ben Luce and his committee have done yeoman service and hats should be off to them by everybody.

A carload of coal, consigned to Grant Cromley, will arrive Monday, and this will be turned over to the citizens' committee, headed by Ben Luce.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—The revolutionary party has taken over the government of Moscow, the American consul general there cabled under date of November 8.

(By Associated Press.)

PETROGRAD, Nov. 9.—(Friday)—The all-Russian congress of workmen's and soldiers' delegates named a cabinet composed of Bolsheviks and then adjourned. It is reported unofficially today. Nikolai Lenin was made premier and Leon Trozky, foreign minister. Trozky announced that the imprisoned Socialist members of the Kerensky cabinet will be released pending an investigation. All others will be held.

The congress took action for the distribution of landed estates and state and church lands by the land committee. The banks have reopened and the city is quiet.

(By Associated Press.)

The revolutionary element under Nikolai Lenin continues to hold the Russian capital, but with the attitude of the Russian soldiers on the various fronts regarding its assumption of power still uncertain.

The reports from Russia still remain meager, but those that are drifting through indicate that Lenin and his followers, including the congress of workmen's and soldiers' delegates, are desirous of a cessation of hostilities for three months in order that efforts may be concentrated upon bringing about peace.

With the telegraph lines in the hands of the Bolshevik faction it is natural to presume that communications from Petrograd lean toward Lenin and his faction, but advice at hand from official and semi-official Russian quarters in Europe and the United States tend to lessen the gravity of the situation and to indicate that order will be brought out of the chaos at no distant time.

Contrary rumors continue to circulate as to the whereabouts of Premier Kerensky, it having been reported that he was under arrest and being taken back to Petrograd for trial by court-martial and also that he was continuing his journey toward the front in an endeavor to strengthen the morale of the troops and put down the revolt. Various members of Kerensky's cabinet are still incarcerated in the fortress of St. Peter and St. Paul in Petrograd and it is reported that General Korniloff, former commander-in-chief of the Russian forces, who has been under arrest for some time, will be tried.

AMUSEMENTS

CHARLES RAY AT THE BUTLER.

Charles Ray, who won a personal triumph in both "The Clodhopper" and "The Pinch Hitter," will appear in the biggest role he has yet essayed in the Triangle play, "Sudden Jim," the Saturday Evening Post story, which will be shown at the Butler today. Millions have read the story, either in serial or novel form, concerning the boy who was given $50,000 by his father and told to play or work, just as he might choose. Playing did not appeal to Sudden Jim. He took over his father's clothes pin factory up in Michigan. In fact, Ray's own personality is so identical with that of Sudden Jim that the Triangle producers purchased the story particularly to feature him. The best company of players that could be assembled were cast for roles in support of Ray. The picture is a knockout—guaranteed—and in addition to the feature a Triangle comedy, "His Fatal Move" will be shown.

Tomorrow, George Boban, the celebrated character actor, in "The Mollified Millions," and a two-reel Keystone comedy, "Dangers of a Bride."
